The Citizen.

HERE AND THERE.

The pulpit of the Glen Ridge Congregational Church, during the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Goodwin, is to be filled by the following clergymen: July 27, Aug. 3, Rev. James Q. Murray, Dean of Princeton College. Aug. 10, Rev. Erskine N. Mason, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions. Aug. 17, Rev. William Hayes Ward, D. D., LL.D, editor of The Independent. Aug. 24, Rev. Carroll Cutler, D. D., Professor of Theology and Church Government in Bucknell University, N. C. Aug. 31, Rev. James H. Tufts, Instructor in Philosophy in Michigan University. The Church is indeed fortunate in getting such able supplies and we trust that all who can will hear them. The custom of supplying churches, that has become en vogue, is an excellent one; it gives both pastor and people a change and thus furnishes them that variety which is the spice of the spiritual, as well as of other kinds of life. It sometimes happens that the experiences of a visiting clergyman are amusing as well as instructive, as of such was the case of an old minister who once supplied the pulpit of a village church. He staid at the home of the resident-clergyman who had two sons of roguish disposition. The young scamps on Saturday afternoon questioned the old gentleman as to the portion of scripture he was to read and expound on the next day. The old man, much pleased by the boys, apparent interest, kindly told them. Thereupon they crept into the church, up into the pulpit and pasted together some of the leaves of the Holy Book. On the next morning the old clergyman gave out the scripture lesson and began to read: "And the good God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs"—here the old man turned over the page and continued to read: "the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits." The aged minister stopped, wiped his eye glasses and re-read the passage; he then said: "Brethren, I have read the scriptures for well nigh seventy years, but this is the first time I have ever met with this passage, I am only my that it goes to show that we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

Mrs. Swain and Miss Florence Gallagher intend visiting Block Island and Lake George. The plan of first going to the seaside and then to the lakes or the mountains is a good one; it saves a vication from a monotony which it might otherwise have. Miss Hattie Fireng goes about August 1st to Swampscott, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Miss Cleaveland, and Mrs. Charles Dodd are on the Maine coast a little above Rockland.

The New England States seem to be growing in popularity as summer resorts. The Pilgrim Fathers are now followed by other pilgrims whose persistency in the search for healthful enjoyment is commendable. Mr. and Mrs. Page are at the White Mountains and probably will canoe on the Connecticut. Many of us who stay at home have to paddle our own canoes, but the waters in which we do so are not as pleasant as those of the Connecticut.

Are you troubled by the mosquitoes? Do they nightly sing their hymns above your couch, and then obligingly alight upon the cheek you so kindly offer them, there to meet their death? All pests are of some use, and even the mosquito brings us an opportunity to satisfy the blood-thirstiness of our nature. The answer to the question: "Why are mosquitoes the most religious of insects," should be known to every Jerseyman. It is because they first sing over us, and then pray (pray) on us.

Many of our citizens show a love of flowers that betokens a sense of the beautiful in form and color. Everyone who can, should cultivate them, for they refine and beautify. Some people take great pleasure in the possession of a technical knowledge of genus and species. For our part we are in thorough sympathy with what is told of the English poet Rogers. He was once driving with a lady who had great botanical knowledge; she noticed a flower that grew by the wayside, and asked the poet to alight and pluck it for her. He did so. She then said: "Mr. Rogers, what is the name of this flower." Rogers, who loved flowers for themselves and not for their names, replied: "Madame, I think too much of flowers to call them names."

The evening service of the First Presbyterian Church is now held at six o'clock and is very largely a service of song. Last Sunday night many of the congregation took advantage of the early hour by attending later the Glen Ridge Congregational Church. The edifice was well filled, and the Rev. Mr. Goodwin preached for the last time before leaving on his vacation.

***

On mentioning, as we do, in this column matters of ecclesiastical interest, it might be well to stop and count the churches of our town. There are eight of them: The First Presbyterian, the Westminster, the German Presbyterian, the Methodist, the Baptist, the Glen Ridge Congregational, the Episcopal and the Roman Catholic. That is about one church to every thousand of the inhabitants of our village. It is rather interesting that all but one of the churches are within such close proximity to the Park. Churches, at times, like shops seem to have a tendency to gather at some one spot. If you are a stranger then, and are in search of some particular church you will be quite safe in making your way to the Park.

A Popular Show.

Main's show grows in popularity every time it exhibits here. The afternoon and evening performances were attended by audiences that filled the large tent to overflowing. This show is now constructed with the great Van Amburgh show, but the admission price remains the same.—Semi-weekly Standard, Harleton, Pa., July 11, 1890.

The Cannon on the Green

Seems to be a problem, which can be briefly stated in this way. As B. B. is to A. D., so is M. M. to B. B. and that is the whole thing in a nut-shell. Now as to the talk at the town meeting by Messrs. Shubert, Hayter and others, if it as M. M. says "What was said amounted to very little, as you measure words or weigh sentences," and so far I agree with our learned friend. M. M., but when we look at results, than it did amount to something, for they voiced the popular sentiment which was shown by the manner in which their remarks were received. When the question of appropriation was put, our distinguished linguist, M. M. will remember the overwhelming vote by which it was carried.

From the fact that he lapses into slang, loses his temper, and calls names, we are certainly correct in counting him one of the "miserable minority."

Now why B. B. should have suddenly aroused himself after the salute had been fired I know not, nor was it possible for us to know that M. M. was cutting a wisdom tooth. When a baby is cutting a tooth it is hardly safe to have the tower bell rung—and in this town, with such a colony of babies, there must be quite a few cutting teeth all the time. J. Q. A. was not thinking about babies when he wrote that letter, but only of the birth of this Republic.

It is a fact beyond contradiction, that up to and including the centennial year "1876," the Fourth of July, was ushered in with the firing of cannons, ringing of bells and a fusilade of noise generally. Now I am not standing out for noise and the din of cannon as the only orthodox way of celebrating the Fourth of July, but until some one suggests some other way as equally distinctive and suggestive I am assuredly for the booming of the cannon; and yet I am a chap who wears his nerves pretty much on the outside—easily reached and easily startled. I think there is more in the imagination, however, in regard to the noise that that little gun makes. And as the flag-staff on the Green seems to be the rallying point for the populace, so naturally that is proper the place to fire the salute. "Fired from some point of eminence, it would be more far reaching, and reviving things would disturb the good people from circumference to centre." Its reverberating echoes would indeed awaken saint and sinner. I would say for my friend Hayter, that he knows but one lady who lives facing the Green, but he is perfectly willing to make the acquaintance of them all—if M. M. thinks it desirable, and whatever may be the views of the majority of the ladies of the township, he certainly would in his humble way gladly assist them in carrying out their views Matters of patriotism can always be safely left with the ladies, and there need be no misapprehension of the result. Had the members of the Republican Convention early last spring had any regard for the popular sentiment, as it found expression at the town meeting, they would not have left the appropriation off of their ballots. As M. M. truly says: "tricks and devices do not pay." When the Battery Boys want more money for powder, the people will give it to them, and another gun when they ask for it. They should not be obliged to sign any contract as to where the gun will be fired. Let us in the meantime hear from the ladies. M. M. ('Mister Man') evidently is a ladies' man and knows them all. Why can't he arrange for a meeting on the Green and let them air their views upon the subject? If he will arrange for the meeting, I think I can promise that the Doctor who lives at the other end of the Green, and the other chap who don't live at all on the Green, will be there for the ladies to talk them off the Green. Just keep hanging away at this subject, all you know how, and you will please

Annual School Meeting.

The annual meeting of the voters of School District No. 7 was held in the High School room on Tuesday evening. The public interest recently manifested in affairs pertaining to the public schools has apparently suddenly dropped. There was a meager attendance at the meeting Mr. James P. Jones presided, with District Clerk Wm. A. Baldwin as secretary. The following amounts recommended by the trustees were voted:

For current expenses $11,000. Towards payment of bonded indebtness, $3,000. Mr. Thomas Oakes, President of the Board of Trustees, stated that the Trustees had endeavored to keep the current expenses as low as would be consistent with the proper conduct of the schools. The following resolution was offered by the Trustees and adopted.

Resolved: That the Trustees of School District No. 7 in the County of Essex be empowered to complete the Berkeley School-house in said district at a cost not to exceed three thousand dollars. ($3,000) and that they be authorized to issue district school bonds for the purpose, in denominations of one thousand ($1,000) dollars each, numbered 19, 20 and 21 and to become payable March 1st, 1897, with interest at five per centum per annum payable half-yearly, said bonds to be sold at not least han par.

In explanation of the resolution Mr. Oakes said that the Trustees had called for proposals for the work of erecting the Berkeley School building in accordance with the plans adopted. The bids exceeded two thousand dollars the $18,000 voted. The Trustees again advertised for bids and succeeded in getting the estimates down to about $20,000. It will require about $1,000 more for improvements to the grounds. The Bloomfield National Bank have taken the whole issue of bonds at par. By an arrangement between the bank and the Trustees the latter can draw the necessary money for carrying on work from now until September 1st without payment of interest. The cost of engraving bonds is also obviated by this arrangement. The annual report of the Trustees has been submitted. The total number of children of school age is 1704. The school enrollment has 1008. Average attendance, 743. The financial receipts for the year have been $24,150.8, the expenses $23,010.20, balance $1,140.60 The mortgages on Berkeley and Brookside school-houses amounting to $3,500 have been paid off, leaving only one mortgage of $2,000 on the school property Considerable money has been spent this year in grading the Berkeley school lot. The school library now contains 1,008 books.

BRIEF NOTES.

The trustees of Excelsior Hose Co. No. 3 will meet to-night.

The Seminary is being renovated inside for the opening in September.

Mr. George Seymour of Hill St. sailed for Europe last Saturday.

Mr. Harmon Spear has been spending a short time at Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. Wm. H. Swan and sister, Mrs. Chas. R. Hall, are visiting relatives in Augusta, Conn.

Mr. George Sedgwick has purchased one of the Pelouhet Organ Company's buildings for manufacturing purposes.

Miss Jennie Low, daughter of Mr. Frances Law and her brother have been spending the week at Budd's Lake.

Mr. Thomas Smith and family and Mrs. Andrew Elliot spent the past week at Ocean Grove.

The Colored Church of Bloomfield went on an excursion to Greenwood Lake on Wednesday.

Brilliant Star Lodge I. O. O. F. of Newark visited Olive Branch Lodge of Bloomfield last Monday night.

The Newark One Price Shoe House, 312 Glenwood avenue will be closed all day on Wednesday, August 6th, it being Storemen's Holiday.

Miss Walsh of Ridgewood avenue leaves for Auverne-by-the Sea to-day, expecting to be away during August.

Contractor Callahan has commenced laying 1,000 feet of flag stone sidewalk on Franklin street, south of Orange street.

Ticket Agent William Linder, of the D. L. & W. R. R. who had been spending his vacation at Ocean Beach, has returned.

The Twilight services in the First Presbyterian Church are found to be particularly enjoyable and will be continued through the summer.

There are at this season many strangers in town and the general opinion is: "What a beautiful old town Bloomfield is." Our Park is particularly admired.

The date of the Storemen's Holiday has been fixed for Wednesday, August 6th. It will probably be celebrated by an excursion to Lake Hopatcong.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss May Turney last night at her home on Central Ave. Montclair N. J. A large party of friends from Bloomfield were present.

The board of directors of the Cemetery held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon to discuss proposed extensive improvements to the cemetery grounds.

That nefarious pest, the elm beetle, which it was thought had run its course, has again suddenly appeared in great numbers on the elm trees surrounding the Park.

The Rev. D. T. Morrell of La Grange, Mo., formerly pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, Newark, is expected to preach in the Baptist Church Bloomfield, on next Sabbath. Morning and evening.

The Sunday-school of the German Presbyterian Church, beginning next Sunday will have a morning session from 9 to 10 instead of the afternoon, for August and September. They will have their annual picnic on August 6, 1890, at Verona Lake.

Berkeley Sunday-school building is removed to the lot purchased for it and it is in a fair way of being in time completed for use. One of the firmest friends of this cause is confident that the money can be raised without difficulty for the completion of the building.

The clerks and salesmen employed in the stores in this town want a day set apart to be known as "Storemen's Holiday." A meeting for this purpose was held on Tuesday night over the Post Office. Committees were appointed who will report to a subsequent meeting.

The crosswalk opposite the Post Office is conceded to be a great public benefit. It is the final consummation of years of talk. Pedestrians for whose especial benefit it was put down, are frequently deprived of its use by the stopping of vehicles across the walk. A sign "Don't anchor here," might be put on the curb.

The County Board of Assessors meet on Monday. Assessor Baxter states that the township assessors are going to have a hitter contest with the city assessors, who are determined by some means or other to force a larger share of the county's burden on to the townships. The township members of the County Board will have to stand well together. The city reaps more than a proportionate share of the benefits of county taxation. The townships are barely represented in the Board of Freeholders.

The Rev. Elbert Clement, pastor of the Watessing M. E. Church, met with a sad bereavement during the past week in the death of his eldest son Arthur Ward Clement, age 26, who died at Mt. Tabor on Tuesday after a brief illness. The young man spent considerable of his life upon the sea and was six years in the United States Navy. He leaves a widow and an infant son. The funeral took place at the Franklin M. E. Church on Thursday afternoon.

What is thought to have been an attempt at burglary took place at the residence of County Superintendent of Schools Chas. M. Davis on Franklin street, last Saturday night. A man climbed on to the roof of an outhouse adjoining the kitchen extension and was in the act of opening a window when he was discovered by the servant girl, whose outcry aroused the family. The fellow beat retreat leaving behind him a stick with which it is supposed he meant to prop up the window.

A case of destitution was brought to the attention of Poor Master Voorhees during the early part of the week. Three boys, children of Joseph McCarty, of Willow street, were said to be in a deplorable condition. Their mother died last week and the expense of her burial was partly borne by the town. McCarty is addicted to drink. He is the son of the late Philip McCarty of Belleville and a few years ago was in comfortable circumstances, but has squandered all his property. Mr. Voorhees called the attention of Rev. J. M. Nardiello to the case, who at once took steps to relieve the children's distress.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking two bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Geo. M. Wood's Drug Store, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Old Church Music.

The Congregation of the Old Church, accustomed as they are to good music, enjoyed an unusual pleasure last Sunday afternoon at their Twilight service, in the exquisite singing of Mrs. Stanley Phraner.

Mrs. Phraner, formerly Miss Pennell, has a very rich contralto voice, which she has diligently and successfully cultivated. Besides the hymns, in which she assisted and which were all in delightful harmony with the time and place, and with the unique spirit of the "Twilight Service" for which the Old Church is becoming noted, Mrs. Phraner sang with the choir in the anthem, "I will both lay me down and sleep," and in the duet with Mrs. Ballantine, "The Lord is my Shepherd" and also a solo from Handel's Messiah, "He was despised and rejected." In this last the whole audience were held spell-bound, and the effect upon the spirit was so great that some have said it remained upon them for hours.

Mrs. Phraner and her husband, who has just graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary, are about to sail to Siam, as missionaries under the care of the Presbyterian Board.

The Rev. Wilson Phraner, D. D., the father of Rev. Stanley Phraner, for thirty-six years the loved and honored pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Sing Sing, New York, has, with his family, recently taken up his residence in Bloomfield, as which fact our village is to be congratulated.

Bromley Chapter.

The second monthly entertainment of the Bromley Chapter of the Epworth League of the Park M. E. Church was held Monday evening, July 21st, in the Chapel. The programme which was chiefly musical was well rendered and those who took part well merit praise for the manner in which the programme was carried out. The new piano recently purchased for the Sunday School and Bromley Chapter was used on this occasion and apparently gave satisfaction. Prof. Fiderit performed caprice by Roff and Rondo by Chopin in a manner which was well received by the audience. Other parts of the programme worthy of mention were singing "Drifting with the tide," by a quartette composed of the Misses Martin, Messrs Lyall and Allen, a piano solo by Miss Bertha Collins and song by Miss J. Estelle Lockwood. During the programme an intermission was taken during which ice-cream was served and a general social time prevailed.

Sudden Death of John Frost.

Very few citizens of Bloomfield know him by name, yet to very many his face was familiar as in his perambulations from day to day he looked up into the faces of a great majority of our citizens. He came into our place of business in the city unheralded and without any letter of introduction. From a rigid and close examination we could not discover his name, or that he had either kith or kin. While he could not speak to us in a language that was intelligent, yet there seemed to be so much of real eloquence in the mute appeals that came from his lustrous eyes we took him to our home in Bloomfield. So the children said let us call him "Jack Frost" and that was his name until the day of his death which was yesterday (Tuesday). We had learned to be quite fond of him, he was so quiet in his ways, and while he did not take kindly to learning and seemed to think education not much to be sought after, we thought that that would come after a while. So he was permitted to leisurely roam about and get strong. Day after day he consequently gained in stature and in strength, but not much in looks, as there were times when his countenance would grow dark and appear really repulsive. He never was prepossessing and strangers and he were slow to become friends. Having once gained his confidence, he was found to be loving and confiding. Yesterday he had been out for his afternoon walk and was on his way home across the railroad track, thinking doubtless of how in a few minutes he would meet those to whom he had become endeared, when a freight train darted along, and in an instant of time he was no more. He had taken "his bark" to the other shore.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., JULY 23, 1890.

To The Bloomfield Citizen.

Having kept a record of extremes of temperature for fifty years I have looked back in it, to find if the thermometer has been as low in any July as it has been in this. I find none. At 5 o'clock A. M. of the 21st, 22d & 23d of this month the thermometer indicated 53 degrees each morning. On three mornings of July 1884 the thermometer stood at 57 degrees and on July 6, 1874 at 58 degrees.

Losing Money in Business.

People all say that Watson & Co. must be losing a pile of money in their great mark down sale of their entire stock made prior to July 1st. Of course Watson & Co. are losing money on all their broken lots of 5, 6, and 7 Pantaloons when they divide them among their customers at $3 a pair, but it sets the stock out clean and enables them to open each season with entirely new garments. Tell your friends to look at the fine English stripes, now shown in both their Broad and Market St. windows in with their "broken lots" at $3 a pair and remember they can get full Suits or handsome Black Cutaways and Vests at equally low prices. Buyers this week will get a chance at these bargins that many will be looking for when the finest goods and handsomest patterns are sold out.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., July 26, 1890.

Some leather's mean. Some workmen are mean. Some shoe-sellers are mean. That's how mean shoes get made and sold.

Six out of every ten pairs of shoes are shams—pasted stock "panopies." Bits of useless leather are pressed and made into insoles, just as bits of useless wool are carded with long cotton and made into shoddy.

Never was a time when shoes looked so well and wore so badly, until the shoeing of a whole family has come to be a serious task.

There's no reason for mean shoes. Some shopkeepers see a reason for them in their cheapness, but if that's so then the manner they are made the better. (You wouldn't tolerate the reason for a moment put in that way.) The only room for them is the room they usurp. And the saving is at the spigot to waste at the bung.

And the remedy?

There's a store where you can't buy shoddy shoes, because they don't sell them; where they have neither two prices nor two names for the same thing; where Paris kid doesn't masquerade as French and machine sewed don't pass for hand sewed.

In here. None but the best at the lowest prices, though best only means with what reductions of price that are necessary.

For the moon there's a $2.00 and $3.00 shoe in three styles, with French, London or Wiesbadenst toe—Goodyear sewed or hand welt.

And there's no better for the money anywhere.

We don't know how to sell "poor" shoes. More than that, we don't want to know.
